

Season surplus

Select a bargain fresh off the vine

It's bonanza time for all you fruit lovers and jam makers!

Thanks to a huge oversupply of fruit and vegetables — partly caused by a hot, dry summer and partly due to the cannery workers' strike — farmers are overloaded this season.

Luckily, the state Department of Agriculture foresaw the problem and set up a special office to connect oversupplied farmers with individual consumers who will drive out to the farm to buy produce — cheap.

Call the state free at (800) 852-7525 (line may be busy but keep trying) to find out all the farms in your area that are selling the bargain crops. Supplies and prices vary, but as of yesterday afternoon these were the farms listed:

TRACY:

•Five T Ranch, 27369 S. Lambers Rd., pick your own green beans, 15 cents a pound; tel. (209) 835-5910.

•The Country Place, 23577 S. Patterson Pass Rd., pick your own green beans, 20 cents per pound, tel. (209) 835-5804.

•Lettie Fornesero, 7681 W. Linne, ready-picked oranges, 10 cents a pound, tel. (209) 835-2997.

BRENTWOOD:

•Three Nuns Farm, Highway 4 and Sunset Road, pick - your - own apricots 12 cents per pound, ready - picked peaches 20 cents, tomatoes 25 cents; 634-4822.

•Emilio and Roy Giggeri, Brentwood Road and Sellers Ave., pick your own corn $1 for 12 ears; also pick tomatoes Tel: 634-3213.

•Bloomfield Farm, Highway 4 and Marsh Creek Road, pick cucumbers for pickling, 10 cents per pound, tel: 625-3253.

•Slatten Ranch, Lone Tree Way, pick peaches for 15 cents or ready picked, 20 cents. Tel: 634-3488.

Marge and Charles Stafare of The Country Place in Tracy have offered pick - it - yourself privileges to the public for the past nine years, as have many Brentwood farmers. Farming areas to the east and north of the Valley have traditionally lured families on weekends, when they have come back laden with cherries in early summer and squash in autumn.

Brentwood can be reached via Vasco Road (off I - 580 in eastern Livermore; go north) while Tracy is accessible from I - 205 (also off I - 580 east of Livermore.)

There are also a few local farmers who sell direct to the consumer, ending on the season; walnuts, squash and pumpkins are the usual crops. None have yet called the state to list their crops but the occasional road sign will direct motorists to Valley bargains.

Tax reform-Pleasanton would need new source for $1 million revenue

Squeeze on legislature

Local governments would lose an estimated 30 to 40 per cent of their property tax revenues if an initiative being circulated by local tax reformers is successful in November.

That was the estimate from both Bob Hansen, one of the circulators who lives in Livermore, and Pleasanton Assistant to the City Manager Jim Walker.

The proposal was news to Walker and he could only go by figures reported to him from a press release by the Alameda County Tax Reform Committee. But judging by the reformer's statements, Pleasanton would stand to lose around $800,000 of its estimated $2 million revenue from property taxes, said Walker.

But that assumes the state gives no tax relief to the cities and counties if the measure takes effect and that's highly unlikely.

As Hansen said, the measure is aimed at getting the Legislature to do something meaningful (in the reformers' eyes) about the tax structure.

"The basic idea is to get the property - related services based on property taxes and the people - related services based on income tax or sales tax," said Hansen. "Some will object because they have their own deductions. But if the appraisals keep rising in this wild real estate market, we're in trouble. What about people moving out because they can't pay their taxes on their homes," asked Hansen. He suggested that government might as well cut its services if people can't afford to stay in the community any more.

Hansen claimed the initiative would not hurt the school system because it has priority funding from the state. If the schools run short of money through local financing, the schools will get the money, he said.

Hansen is not happy with the performance of Assemblyman Floyd Mori and Senator John Holmdahl, the area's representatives in the Legislature. "It's obvious they won't do anything for us unless we get them fired up. I thought they were our lobbyists. If we put something across in front of them, they'll have to do something," said Hansen.

If passed in November, the initiative would take effect the following July, the beginning of the fiscal year. That's also the date the Legislature concludes budget deliberations, so it could be expected the representatives would work hard to offset the depletions of revenues to various levels of government which base their incomes on the property tax.

Hansen said that under the current property tax system, the owner of a $40,000 house would pay $1,200 in taxes. Under the reform initiative, he or she would pay about $600, said Hansen. If the owner were 62 or older, he or she would not pay anything, because there is a $40,000 exemption for senior citizens.

For all others, the $7,000 exemption would be raised to $10,000.

Basically the initiative would change the assessed valuation of a property from 25 percent of full market value to 100 per cent. Then a maximum taxing rate of 2 per cent would be allowed for residential property, 2.5 per cent for all other property.

On a $60,000 house, it would mean a 2 per cent rate times the $50,000 taxable value (you subtracted the $10,000 deduction) and the maximum taxes would be $1,000 a year; instead of the $1,750 a Pleasantonite would pay this year.

Guests to the new Lawrence Livermore Laboratory's Visitors Center on Greenville Road watch a computer - controlled television project a film about the Lab's ongoing projects. The Center opens tomorrow at 10 a.m. to the public.

Lid comes off a world of research

LIVERMORE — Saturday's opening of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory Visitor Center will for the first time allow the general public to view highlights of intensive research being conducted there on laser fusion, biomedical processes and weapons development.

Built at a cost of $250,000, the 2,500-square-foot main display building boasts audio - visual exhibits of some of the most exciting aspects of technological research the Lab is currently conducting.

Visitors to the Center on Saturday will also be allowed to tour three Lab facilities including biomedical research laboratories, where researchers analyze basic biological processes and man's interaction with his environment; the magnetic fusion laboratory in which major advances have caught the attention of other scientists studying fusion; and the Argus, the world's most powerful laser designed for fusion research.

"We are extremely pleased about the opening of our new Visitors Center and the added opportunity it creates for communicating with the general public," said Lab Director Dr. Roger E. Batzel.

"Traditionally, we have had to limit public access to the Laboratory to an open house every two or three years. The Visitors Center gives us the ability to bring the public on-site and demonstrate highlights of our programs all year around."

Visitors entering the Center are first directed into a temporary building housing a theater. A colorful multimedia presentation using slide and movie projectors shows "LLL Today," a three-screen and stereo sound production of Lab accomplishments and ongoing research projects.

Guests are then allowed to browse at their own pace through a multitude of picture displays, video tape presentations and experiment exhibits in the main display building.

By pushing the proper sequence on a number keyboard, guests can view a three-minute film of Lab projects, past, present and future, on a color television mounted in a display wall. As the film is projected, an electronic digital readout counter shows in seconds the film length remaining.

In a corner of the Center is a table with three television monitors and attached typewriter keyboards. By following instructions flashed on the screens, visitors can register their opinions of the Center by keying in answers to a series of questions about the facility.

A large exhibit in the same corner simulates the process of nuclear fission and offers a simplified explanation of the complex procedure.

The nearly quarter - century history of the Lab is presented in a series of wall panels in a three - dimensional display. Coupled with other major events of the period, it gives a comparative indicator of the political nature of decisions made concerning the Lab's operations and direction.

A wall of literature awaits those whose curiosities are aroused by displays of the Lab's projects and areas of research.

More displays are planned for the immediate future, including holographic (true three - dimensional picture) exhibits and other hands-on presentations. In 1977, a theater and an exhibit hall totalling 5,000 square feet are planned for completion.

The Center will open to the public Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The facility will be open daily Wednesday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5:45 p.m.

The Visitors Center is located on Greenville Road, 1/2-mile north of East Avenue. Admission is free, and everyone but citizens of Sino - Soviet bloc countries is invited. Visitors will be required to sign a roster indicating citizenship.

Murray public hearing Monday

DUBLIN — A public hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday in the Murray Elementary School multi-purpose room, 8435 Davona Drive, concerning out - of - district students.

Three kidnap suspects in custody

CHOWCHILLA (AP) — The last two men wanted in the Chowchilla bus kidnaping case were arrested Thursday two weeks after 26 school children and their bus driver were abducted and buried alive.

Frederick N. Woods, 24, was captured in British Columbia five hours after his former schoolmate James Schoenfeld, 24, was arrested near his San Francisco Peninsula hometown.

Also Thursday morning, Schoenfeld's 22-year-old brother, Richard, pleaded innocent to 43 felony counts stemming from the mass abduction at an arraignment in this small farming community. He had surrendered last Friday.

All three sons of prominent families had been named in federal arrest warrants listing bail at $1 million.

James Schoenfeld, thwarted twice in attempts to reach Canada, was picked up at 6:55 a.m. Thursday in Menlo Park, near the Schoenfeld family home in plush Atherton. His attorney said he had returned to California to surrender.

Acting on tips from the San Francisco FBI, Woods was captured shortly before noon in a Vancouver, B.C. post office by officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, according to Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge.

Woods' father owns the rock quarry in Livermore where the victims were imprisoned in a buried moving van for 18 hours after the July 15 kidnap.

James Schoenfeld was booked at San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City on kidnap and unlawful flight charges, officials said, then transferred to the Alameda County Jail where he was being held on $1 million bail.

At the courthouse here, Richard Schoenfeld, 22, clad in a rumpled sweater, beige jeans and cowboy boots, slumped in his chair but answered clearly when Judge Howard C. Green questioned him before a packed courtroom.

"You have charged against you 43 felony counts," Green told Schoenfeld. He added that if convicted of the first count, kidnap with bodily harm against bus driver Ed Ray, Schoenfeld faced "life imprisonment without possibility of parole."

Ray suffered a cut hand during the ordeal. Green set Aug. 4 to name a date for a preliminary hearing and agreed to hear arguments for a reduction in the $1 million bail at that time.

There were few townspeople around when Schoenfeld arrived at 8:55 a.m. at the modern one-story tan brick courthouse for his first court appearance since surrendering July 23. He was flanked by seven plain clothes officers and SWAT

They're fighting for the three R's

DUBLIN — "RIA" (Residents In Action) organized just 11 days ago, but already members are taking around a petition opposing the suggested conversion of Dublin School.

They don't want their neighborhood elementary school, which now houses kindergarten through eighth graders, turned into a 7th and 8th grade middle school. That's a proposal they feel will be recommended to the school board by the advisory committee that was set up specifically to deal with the Murray school district's overcrowding problems.

Heading the petition drive are RIA chairperson Eileen Price (828-9455); secretary Teresa Herrington (828-2904); co - chair Marsha Koutz (828-1368) and member Lenore Holmes (828-0492.)

Any of them will be eager to explain RIA's point of view to interested callers.

RIA mustered more than 40 local residents to speak out or at least lend their moral support at the last Murray Elementary School District public meeting, July 19. They are hoping for even greater public support at this Monday night's meeting, to be held 8 p.m. in Murray School, 8435 Davona Drive.

Their petition expresses opposition to converting their neighborhood school to a middle school and asks the school board to choose some other alternative to relieving Donlon School's overcrowding.

would mean some 500 kindergarten through sixth graders would be bused elsewhere instead of being able to walk to school — a costly proposition for the district as well as an unpleasant one for local parents to face.

There are other objections, too. Dublin School has a state - funded Early Childhood Education (ECE) program which would be lost if the program is changed. And, parents like the idea of a K - 8 program and see no reason for giving students a junior high - type program with numerous electives.

The women will be going door to door with their petition, concentrating on the Dublin School neighborhood, through Aug. 11.

They plan to present the petition at the Aug. 16 meeting.

The Citizens Advisory Committee is due to meet Sept. 1 to prepare their final report for the school board.

Sylvan first street

Sit back and relax in your car for a few minutes while waiting to go through the road construction on First Street and you can enjoy the natural beauty of Pleasanton's trees and hills beyond the machine clutter. City crews are laying 12-inch and 10-inch sewer pipes for the next week or week and a half. The line is expected to solve sewer woes in the Walnut Avenue area and all for a cost of $57,000, according to Mike Stanley of the city engineering department.

City, schools at odds, Mori's in the middle

LIVERMORE — The city council and the school district are holding fast in their stands for and against respectively Senate Bill 1714, a bill that would delete the authority of school districts to override local zoning except in situations involving classroom use.

The bill, authored by Sen. Jerry Smith, would take away the school district's power to override local zoning for non-classroom facilities that are located upon, adjacent to, or contiguous to land used for classroom facilities.

State law now allows a school board, by two-thirds vote, to render a city's zoning ordinances inapplicable for the school building program.

Under Senate Bill 1714, that power would be retained for classroom facilities, but would be taken away for warehouses, garages, sheds and other non-classroom facilities.

The bill passed the Senate by a vote of 26 to 4. It is now in the Assembly Local Government Committee, and will move soon to the Assembly Education Committee of which Assemblyman Floyd Mori is a member.

Leo Croce, superintendent of the Livermore Valley Unified School District reiterated the district's opposition to the bill in letters to Mori and State Senator John Holmdahl. Copies were sent to the city. The district opposes the bill because it would take away the autonomy which is presently granted to school districts to exempt themselves from local city ordinances in regard to selection of school sites and their buildings, Croce said.

Croce asked the elected representatives to consider the many constraints placed by the state upon the building requirements of a school. He noted that school districts often include more than one city within a district, and added that many cities have peculiar building ordinances that may create "additional hardships architecturally, as well as financially, on school districts as they develop their needed buildings."

He urged the representatives to oppose the bill, an action he indicated would "insure that the best interests of our school children and parents are protected."

This week city councilmembers, furnished with copies of the school superintendent's letters, restated their support for the bill, and directed staff to send letters to Holmdahl and Mori reflecting the council's position.

The council had unanimously indicated its support for the bill on May 4.

Clanking bureaucracy and car wash blues

PLEASANTON — "If there's any way I can get it through, I'll buy the property," Frank Louthan told the city council Monday night in a line which may have sounded a little funny (the audience laughed), but everyone knew what he meant.

Louthan is under some time pressure about buying the vacant lot next to his Exxon gas station on W. Angela and Main Streets and he would like an indication soon about whether it's realistic to consider a car wash on the property.

The property is zoned CC (central commercial) and car washes are forbidden in that zone, but Louthan wants the CC zone amended so that it's okay to have a car wash.

But the wheels of the planning process grind exceedingly slow. City Attorney Ken Scheideg told Louthan. If the whole zoning process is cranked up now, he might have some indication by January 1 as to whether his application will be successful.

Louthan told The Times yesterday he has not decided if that's too slow for his situation. He must meet with his realtor when the man returns from vacation to determine his next move.

A bid a few weeks ago by Louthan to get the city to alter the zoning ordinance so that car washes are permitted in the CC zone was rejected by the planning commission. However, Louthan was not present that evening.

The commission turned down the proposed change because it felt the change could encourage combination car wash and gas stations in CC zones, said Louthan. He was unable to attend that meeting and make it clear that his car wash would not bring in new gas pumps. A change in CC zoning to allow car washes without gas pumps would not bring any new problems for the city, said Louthan.

"It would not attract any more car washes because no one would install a car wash without gas pumps. And mine is the only gas station in town with a vacant lot next to it so no other existing stations would bring in a car wash," he said.

Louthan said his proposed car wash is the most modern kind, quiet with recycled water and completely enclosed.

The council agreed to send Louthan's item to the planning commission, with special attention to what neighborhood impact the proposed car wash would have on the neighborhood.

Responsibility is one thing, but...

There's nothing wrong with holding barkeeps responsible for the drinks they serve and the consequences that may follow, she said. After all, "If you're going to be in business — any business you've got to take some responsibility."

But the nebulous field of legal "negligence" that has barkeeps and restaurateurs trapped between skyrocketing insurance premiums and an unsympathetic public "is going to drive the little guy right out of business," her husband adds.

Shirley and Bob Fugazi have spent their lives in the bar business, finally working up to the American Dream: their own place.

Bob spent 10 years at Livermore's famed Granada Bowl and Shirley more than three years there. About a year and a half ago the Livermore couple launched their own capitalist campaign and bought Nashville West in Sunnyvale and brought more than half their staff from the valley.

Since the State Supreme Court ruled in 1972 that bars are responsible for the actions of their customers after they've left premises plastered, insurance rates have gone amuck, they say.

If, Shirley emphasizes, you can get coverage. They were paying $320 a month for fire and liability insurance when they first opened. The rate passed quickly through $700 a month, and now hovers at more than $12,000 a year.

"Most of it is written by Lloyds of London," she adds, "and they aren't cheap."

"You live in panic thinking, 'God almighty, how much is it going to cost to stay in business.'"

The Fugazis haven't raised the tariff for their customers as the insurance agents suggest. They've eaten the increase.

"People are a strange breed," she says. "They won't buy it. They come in here on a Saturday night and say, 'God, you must be making a million.' They don't know this office and the overhead exist."

It's a common complaint of all patrons. They see 32, one-ounce shots at a dollar or so apiece in each quart of liquor, then quickly calculate the cost at about six bucks. Fat profit. Easy life.

Except for rent, wages, the expanding cost of napkins, cherries, swizzle sticks and limes. And now insurance.

"We can't hang on to an insurance company, either," she says. They've had to put up between $2,000 and $2,700 "front money" while the agent writes the policy. The money is applied to the premium, but in a few months — even when there's been no claims or suits the insurance carrier cancels.

"It's hell on the cash flow," she says.

There's hope in sight, however, under Assembly Bill 3910 by Palm Springs Democrat Tom Suitt. The "Dram Shop Act," which has passed the Assembly and will be heard by the Senate Judiciary Committee next month, would limit liability to $100,000 for each person and $250,000 for each accident.

The California Licensed Beverage Association claims the bill will "cut down 98 per cent of the frivolous claims" that eat up attorneys' fees and scare off insurance companies, and will reduce insurance rates.

As in the medical malpractice imbroglio, however, lawyers are against the bill.

"I'm not against a person being able to sue," she continues, "but the non-limit on the liability is killing us."

A Los Angeles court recently awarded actor James Stacy $1.9 million in damages after he lost an arm and a leg when a drunk driver smashed into the actor's motorcycle. Stacy's passenger was killed and the estate awarded an additional $400,000.

"The little guy's going to go out of business if he has to carry insurance," Bob says emphatically. "And he probably won't carry it. He'll just pray."

Green light for more bowling

ALAMEDA COUNTY BUREAU HAYWARD — Dublin's second bowling alley, planned as an addendum to the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, got the go-ahead from county zoning administrator Richard Flynn this week.

Flynn granted a conditional use permit that clears the way for construction of the 40-lane facility on Regional Street.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held earlier in the week for yet another bowling alley to be built a few blocks away near the K-Mart. The Dublin Land Co., a Chicago based group, will build the $1.5 million bowling alley complete with restaurant and cocktail lounge and child care facilities. The bowling alley will become part of a recreation center with tennis courts and sauna.

The center will not be limited to guests, but open to community membership.

The firm also plans to add 56 rooms to the existing motor lodge.

Flynn granted another conditional use permit that will shift the search for oil and natural gas from east of Livermore to farmlands south of the city.

Land owner Charles F. Crohare and C.F. Brand & Co. will begin exploratory drilling in fields bordering Olivina Road in mid-August, said Flynn.

He turned down their request for permission to build production facilities on the site if the search is successful. The applicants will have to reapply if they discover either oil or natural gas.

There is no record of oil exploration in that area, Flynn said, although there is extensive drilling east of Livermore near Patterson Pass Road.

Tax reform initiative circulating

People circulating petitions on the tax reform initiative will be available at major Livermore shopping centers from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. today and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Signs proclaiming "Homeowners property tax reform initiative" will mark the areas where they will be present. Look also for people carrying clipboards with petitions.

There are approximately 800 petitions being circulated in the valley, according to Bob Hansen. Those with completed petitions or who desire to circulate them can reach Hansen at 447-4632 or 447-1100, ext. 7495.

Printed information will be available from the petition circulators today and tomorrow.

Tennis Faire rent reduced

PLEASANTON — The park and recreation commission approved a contract with lower rent for its lease for Tennis Faire from the Alameda County Fair Board Wednesday night.

Recreation Director Robert Caporusso is suggesting to the fair board that the rent be lowered from the $2400 per month the city paid in the five month trial period before the recent county fair. If the city takes in any profit over that, up to $2400, it would give the funds to the fair board. The city would keep anything over the $2400.

On another item, the commissioners appointed Kathleen O'Brien to be their ex-officio member on the proposed Human Services Commission. The commission, successor to the Community Concerns Commission, would have ex-officio members from the housing authority, planning commission and park and recreation commission and five citizens.

Associated Community

Action Program will send a staff member to the city next month to begin a year-long study of the community's human service needs. That person's assessment will go to the human service commission which will then determine whether the city should reorganize the park and recreation department into a human services department.

Commissioners also chose Jerry Wilfley as the new chairperson, replacing Chuck Gielow who was named vice-chairperson.

Friends of the Livermore Woman's Club are invited to participate in the club's fund-raising auction set Friday, Aug. 6 on the grounds of the Carnegie Building at Livermore.

Donations of white elephants (knick-knacks, small easily-handled household goods, collector's items) may be brought to the Carnegie clubrooms before 11 a.m. that day. Bidding commences at noon.

For information on the club or auction contact Becky Gann at 447-9144 or Betty Johnson at 447-6747.

Livermore Woman's Club was organized 65 years ago as the Livermore Woman's Improvement Club. The beautiful landscaping, shrubs and trees surrounding the Carnegie Building resulted from the efforts of women of the early club.

In the 1960s, the club provided a utility kitchen in the lower floor clubrooms of the Carnegie Building, and furnished draperies for one room. Most recently the club has provided the all-weather flag which flies at the corner of Livermore Avenue and First Street, and lighting for its 24-hour display.

Scholarships were made available to two young Livermore women, and a bus trip to Marine World was arranged for the retarded children at the Alphonso Ladd School. Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch and the Livermore Emergency Fund were also assisted.

Mind control

Carol Kinsey of the Silva Mind Control Method will give a free introductory lecture on how you can change your self-image for your benefit at the Livermore Holiday Inn, Wednesday Aug. 4 at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m., Room 320. The auxiliary is collecting Betty Crocker coupons for a vision tester for the Fallon School at Dublin through Dawn Rutter.

Virginia Heckman, senior vice-president of District 14, presented the citations to the Livermore auxiliary in person. During the 1975-76 year, the auxiliary has earned a total of 10 citations at the district and state level.

The next meeting of the group is slated Aug. 11 at 8 p.m.

Style-athon

A local businessman will pay $100 for a hair style during the 24-hour style-athon to be held at Tony's Hair Fashions in Pleasanton Aug. 15, according to Chairman Joe Cisneroz.

"The man wishes to remain anonymous, but said he challenges any other person to meet or break his donation to St. Jude Children's Hospital," said Cisneroz. All proceeds from the style-athon will benefit the hospital, largest childhood cancer research center in the world.

The bank is sponsored by the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association which reports a critical shortage of blood which is delaying many surgeries.

The John Knox Church Donor Club is concerned not only with the continuing demand for blood supplies, especially as Labor Day approaches, but also with the high cost of blood. Recipients of blood must pay $50 a pint if not a member of a blood bank club.

In cooperation with the medical association, the John Knox Donor Club intends the blood bank to serve residents of Dublin, San Ramon, Pleasanton and Livermore. All blood given Aug. 7 will be available free of charge to any valley resident with an urgent need in coming months.

Volunteers may make an appointment for Aug. 7, if convenient, by calling the church office at 828-1846.

Hotline

"Hotline," the valley's drug abuse and youth counseling center, has many worthwhile books and pamphlets that have been donated to them, but have no bookshelves or pamphlet racks on which to display them.

Candy Ingraham, Hotline director, is sending out an appeal to the community for a possible donation of the above items or any useable office furniture for their headquarters at 4361 Railroad Ave.

Metal files that can be locked are also a much needed item, for the many records which are continually being compiled.

If you, your business or your organization can help, please call Candy at 462-5544.

All three suspects arrested

team members guarded the scene from nearby rooftops.

About 350 people, including many reporters, swarmed about the courthouse door as he was hustled away after the arraignment for the return journey to Alameda County where he will be held in the same jail as his brother.

Joan Brown, mother of two of the victims and the only parent to witness the arraignment, called it "the beginning of justice, the beginning of the process."

Other residents of this once quiet town of 5,000 indicated that feelings against the accused men still ran high.

"People are angry, they are worse than angry," said Emmet Rushing, as he stood outside the courthouse. "They (authorities) have to be awfully careful or he is not going to make it."

Sgt. Merlin Vandekinder of the Mounties said they went to the post office on directions from the FBI. Canadian officials were trying to determine if Woods entered the country legally. If he entered illegally he can be deported immediately; otherwise he will have to be extradited.

Authorities said it was unknown how long Woods had been in Canada or how he entered the country. He was staying in a hotel near the post office, but a search of his room turned up nothing of interest, the Mounties reported.

Richard Schoenfeld's attorney, Robert Merrill, told newsmen here that the older brother was on his way to "make arrangements to surrender" when police and sheriff's deputies arrested him just off U.S. 101, a major San Francisco area north-south artery.

Officers said James Schoenfeld offered no resistance when Menlo Park police, Redwood City police and San Mateo County sheriff's deputies halted the battered, multi-colored van Schoenfeld had purchased in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho on July 20.

Authorities in Idaho said Schoenfeld was stopped the day he purchased the van because of a problem with the registration. He wasn't held because there was no all-points bulletin issued at the time.

The FBI said an all points bulletin issued later for the van led to Schoenfeld's arrest.

The arrest warrants for Woods and the Schoenfelds cite 27 counts of kidnapping and 16 counts of robbery. Robbery charges stem from clothing and other items the kidnapers took from their victims.

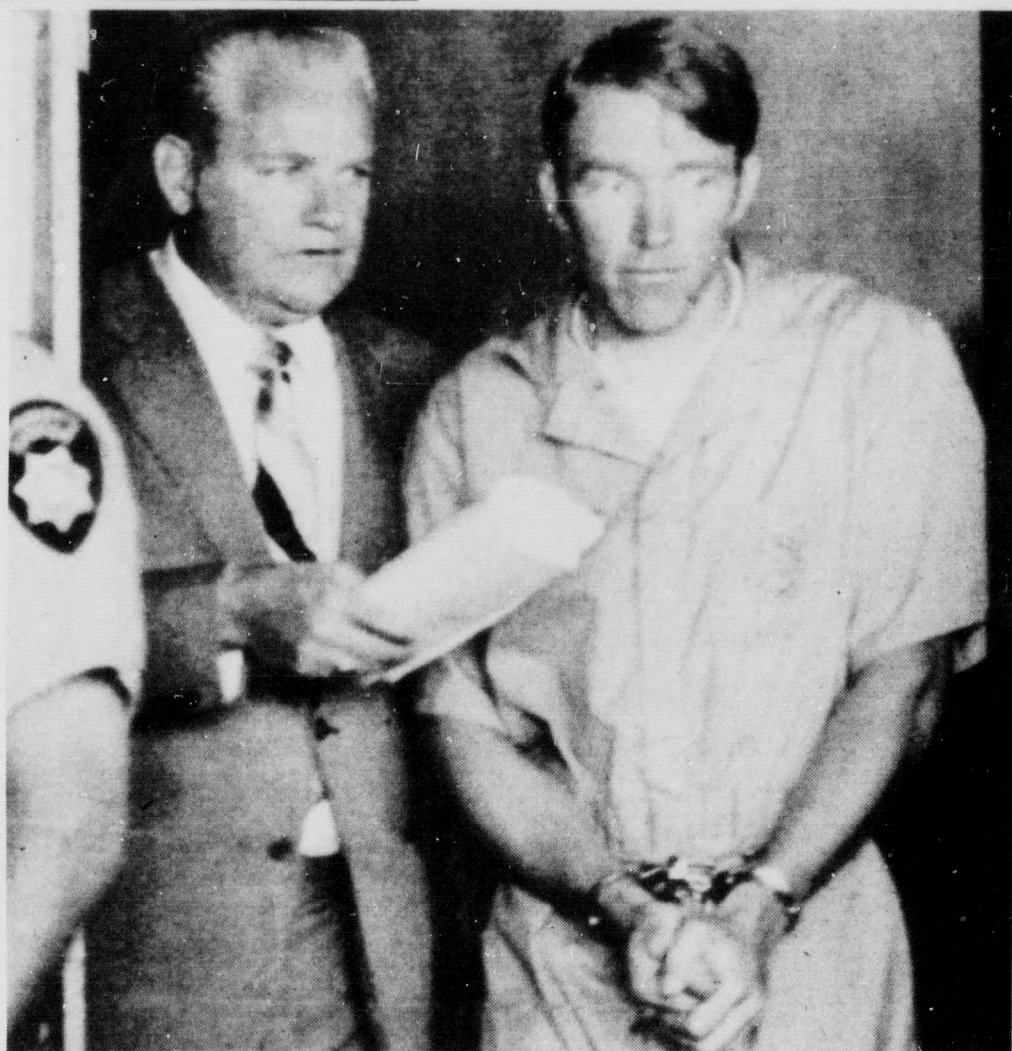

Merrill said James Schoenfeld had contacted his partner, William Gagen, by telephone Wednesday night from an undisclosed location.

"He was supposed to be in our office this morning at 8 a.m. to meet with Bill Gagen to make arrangements to surrender," Merrill said.

"He was coming into our office in Danville, but his attempt to turn himself in was thwarted," Gagen said later.

Gagen described the Schoenfeld brothers as "very naive" about the seriousness of the charges against them. He said James Schoenfeld had been in the area for several days "perhaps camping on a beach" and apparently had been in contact with his parents.

"His spirits are good. He is very relieved that he is in custody. He wanted to know how his brother is holding up," Gagen told reporters.

Second suspect nabbed

San Mateo County Sheriff John McDonald, left, points the way as James Schoenfeld, the second of three suspects in the bizarre Chowchilla school bus kidnapping, is taken from the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City yesterday on his way to the Alameda County Jail in Oakland. The third suspect Frederick Woods was arrested in Vancouver, B.C.

Ark School boosters

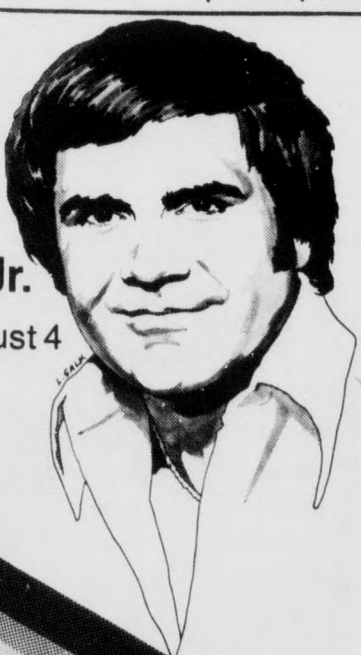

No mistaking these kids! Frankie Uhl, Matthew Wilson, Dana Brown, Anita Ancira and Ark Nursery School director Don Jen made sure everybody knows where they go to school. The gang at the Ark, 883 Rose Ave., Pleasanton, silk-screened the artistic T-shirts themselves as an art project. First they imprinted a rainbow background, then superimposed the stylized boat logo. Now, field trips will be a snap — if everybody remembers to wear their T-shirts.

Latin task force talk tonight

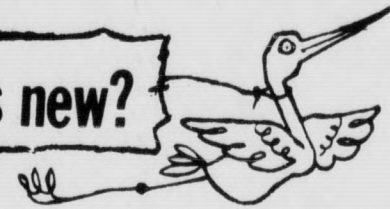

Ralph Hernandez of the Latin American United Task Force, from San Diego, will be guest speaker at a meeting being sponsored by the Association of Mexican-American Educators (AMAE) and Latin-American Services Organization (LASO) of Livermore. The meeting, in the form of an educational seminar, will be held at the ACAP Auditorium, 23738 Mission Blvd., Hayward, tonight at 7 p.m.

Hernandez hopes to inform the community about the recent LAU Supreme Court decision dealing with bilingual, bicultural education. He will also outline methods by which we can assist school districts who are not in compliance with this LAU decision. Each of these districts is being asked by the U.S. Office of Civil Rights to establish local LAU Task Force committees which must include Spanish speaking participation.

It is hoped that these informative seminars will help those participating to, in turn, help Spanish-speaking students obtain a better education.

Pleasanton air analysis lauded

PLEASANTON — The work done by Pleasanton on the air quality components of the general plan's environmental elements drew compliments from Bay Area Air Pollution Control District Control Officer Milt Feldstein recently.

Feldstein wrote Planning Director Bob Harris that the air quality plan is "generally well-executed and complete."

"It effectively describes the Pleasanton air quality setting and explores the relationship between general plan implementation and air quality impacts in comprehensive and relevant detail," Feldstein wrote. "The City of Pleasanton is to be commended for this excellent effort and for realizing the importance of incorporating this type of evaluation into the general plan."

As more information becomes available, BAAPCD will help the city update the air quality portion of the environmental element. The air pollution control district will refer to the city's work when it reviews specific Environmental Impact Reports which the city refers to BAAPCD, said Feldstein. The district reviews the impacts with an eye to specific, local effects, he said.

people by providing a two-way communication between the council and residents.

The council members will do their parts by giving talks on various aspects of city government and a period is reserved for community discussion.

Councilman Frank Brandes will give a talk on that perennial civic favorite, streets.

Wicks key for Pleasanton

AUBURN — Rob Wicks leads an improved Pleasanton Senior Babe Ruth squad into the Northern California championships at James Field here tomorrow.

Wicks, who will be a senior at Amador High School this fall, threw a no-hitter last Saturday as Pleasanton rolled over Mitchell's of Hayward 3-0 in the first game of the Southern Division finals. Pleasanton turned its batters loose in the second contest to rout Mitchell's 13-4 for the championship.

Pleasanton will play at 5 p.m. against the winners of tonight's Fruitridge-Auburn contest. If Pleasanton loses the first game they will play again at 8:30 Saturday night against the losers of the Fruitridge contest.

Jim McClure, coach of the Pleasanton team, feels his squad will have to play a near-perfect game to win.

"We can't afford to make any mistakes," he admitted. "The teams that will be there are competitive, well-balanced squads about on a par with us and Hayward."

Wicks will probably start the first game but McClure feels hitting is the big key.

"Our pitching and defense have been strong all season," he said. "Wicks pitched one of his best games when he threw the no-hitter and we had some excellent defense behind him. However, our hitting has been improving with every game."

That improvement was evident in the second victory over Mitchell's. Pleasanton exploded for 16 hits, including four by center fielder Bret Boldrini. Boldrini also stole two bases.

Shortstop Greg Bellinger also has shown a potent bat. He smashed three hits in the 13-4 rout and has steadily improved all season.

Pleasanton will also have the valuable services of pitcher Al Schaut. Schaut was the winning pitcher in the 13-4 victory over Mitchell's. He also has some power as witness his triple in that contest which drove in two runs.

The local team also some good hitters in Dan Straface, who plays both catcher and right field, and right fielder Mike Connelly. Straface belted two hits in the Southern Division championship game and Connelly came through with two crucial hits in Pleasanton's important win over Fremont in an earlier playoff contest.

If Fruitridge is Pleasanton's opponent tomorrow night then the local team could be in for a real clash. Fruitridge defeated Cordova Wednesday night to qualify for this tournament. Cordova has drawn several players from its high school team which was rated among the best squads in the state for the past two years.

Still, Pleasanton is used to tough competition. The local nine lost to Mitchell's, 1-0 in the second round of the Southern Division playoffs before fighting back to take the championship.

This could happen in the Northern California Tournament, too. However, its probable McClure, Wicks and the rest of the would prefer to go undefeated in this double-elimination tournament.

Davidson leading valley swimmer in Mission Viejo competition

MISSION VIEJO — Thirteen-year old Dana Davidson will be one of the most active swimmers on the block here today, Saturday and Sunday at the Mission Viejo Invitational Championships at the International Swim Center.

Davidson, entered in seven events, heads a list of 11 local swimmers entered in the meet, sponsored by this city's fabled Nadadores team.

Loaded down with almost countless age group national and Pacific Association records, Dana made a respectable debut in the senior ranks two weeks ago, taking ninth in the NorCal Senior Invitational at Diablo Valley College.

A birthday, moving her into a new age bracket last month, gives the Pleasanton swimmer a shot at further age group marks. She'll swim the 100-meter butterfly, the 400-meter freestyle, the 200-meter individual medley, the 200-meter butterfly, the 200-meter freestyle, the 400-meter individual medley and the 100-meter freestyle.

Six NorCal Aquatics team mates make up the bulk of the local contingent. Dana's sister Jan will swim in the 100 free while 17-year old Idaho native Nancy Thompson will compete in the 100 and 200 free events as well as the 200-meter backstroke.

Indonesia's prize breast stroke, Anita Sapardjiman and HaKie Njan will be on hand as will Dublin High School's Kevin McKenna. Sapardjiman and McKenna will swim both the 100- and 200-meter breaststrokes while Njan will stick to the 100.

The San Ramon Seawolves will also send an impressive contingent. Diablo Valley College stars

Sandy McDonald (100 fly), John Roemer (100 breast) and Ned Maggiora (100 and 200 free) will swim along with Kirk Haley (200 IM).

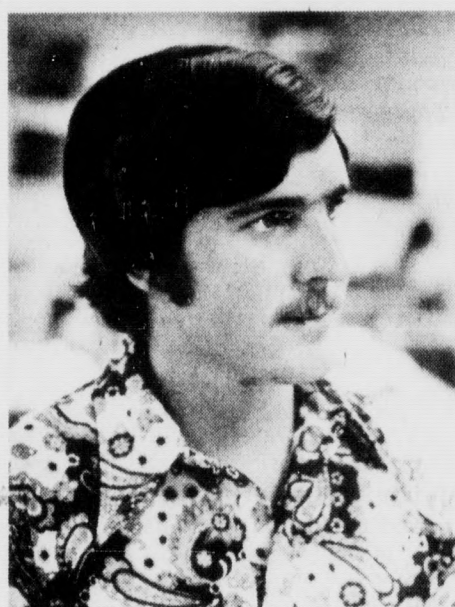

That quartet will also be in the water for the 400-meter medley relay.

Katie Fleischer, an Amador Valley High School student, will swim in the meet for the Pleasant Hill Swim Club.

Individually, she'll compete in the 100 and 200 free. Katie will also swim the freestyle leg of the 400 medley relay with PHSC team mates Shelly Karbone, Kim Veenstra and Cheryl Smiarowski handling the specialty strokes.

Preliminary heats will begin each day at 10 a.m. with finals starting at 5 p.m. at the Orange County facility.

Busy Wolfe ready for NCGA tourney

Vic Wolfe

PEBBLE BEACH — Livermore's 20-year-old Vic Wolfe has been around long enough to know that fame and fortune don't necessarily go together.

After advancing to the quarter-finals of the United States Golf Association Public Links championship last week at Bunker Hills Golf Course in Coon Rapids, Minnesota, Wolfe was kidded that he had become a target for players trying to make a name for themselves.

"They knocked me off last year before I was a big shot," said Wolfe, recalling a collegiate season at the University of the Pacific that left him far from satisfied.

But things have picked up for Wolfe during the summer as his third place finish in medal play at Coon Rapids would indicate. With the strong showing came a glowing character reference from "Sports Illustrated" reporter Sarah Pileggi, who spent three oversized paragraphs describing Vic's refreshing attitude towards the tourney.

"After I was eliminated, I went down and thanked Frank Hannigan (a USGA official) for the tournament because I'd really had a good time," Wolfe said, explaining the gesture that gained him national ink.

"I can't put a price on the experience I gained."

Wolfe is uncertain whether his success will continue this weekend when he heads a list of six local golfers competing in the Northern California Golf Association Public Links tourney at Spyglass Hill Golf Course here.

"I've been working (as a pro shop assistant at his home course, Las Positas) and haven't had a good chance to practice," he admitted.

Former Livermore High School teammate Bob Fulton will join Wolfe in the championship flight while Jerald Lester of Sunol Valley will compete in the President's Flight for those with handicaps of five through 11. Roger Young and John Czapowski of Las Positas join Sunol's Don Perkins in the Spyglass Hill Flight for 12-handicappers and up.

After being exposed to top competition in Minnesota, the professional golf tour holds a strong allure for Wolfe.

"I'd like to get through school before I think about that," Wolfe said. He has one year of athletic eligibility remaining at UOP, which he attends on scholarship and will require an additional half-year to gain his diploma.

"I'd need to improve my short game," he explained. "If you miss the green, you've got to get it up and down."

"When you get ready to turn pro, you just have to hit balls all day, every day."

Wolfe, who did just that before the USGA Public Links cited his determination as a major factor in his success there and the strange northern weather as his downfall.

"People told me it would be hot and humid," he said, understating the 100-degree temperatures that were broken by occasional rain. "It was bearable, but barely."

"Everybody has to play in it, but the wind really took a lot out of me," he continued. "I'd be trying to set over a shot and I'd be blown all over the place."

Stohr, Honour impress in women's pentathlon

PLEASANT HILL — Kathy Honour and Diana Stohr finished second and third respectively in the first annual women's pentathlon at Diablo Valley College Wednesday.

Roberta Bruder took first in the competition ahead of the two former Granada High School athletes. Bruder totaled 3152 points to 2981 for Honour and 2972 for Stohr.

Honour took first in the 100-meter hurdles in 15.8 and won the long jump with a fine leap of 17-8. Stohr, a state meet performer, ran an outstanding 25.9 to capture the 200 meters.

However Bruder's consistency proved to be the key. She threw the shot put 33-3, long jumped 16-10 and ran the 200 meters in a fine 27.6.

Stohr, who finished third at the state meet in June, also did well in the long jump, leaping 16-11. She also threw the shot 15 feet, high jumped 4-4 and ran 16.9 in the hurdles.

Honour high jumped 4-6, threw the shot put 21-2 and ran the 200 meters in 27.4.

Kate Foley won the girls' 14-15 division pentathlon with 2498 points. KC McGuire was second with 1657 points. She is even younger than 14. Leslie Kramer was third with a 1603 total.

In the men's open six-mile race Ralph Bowles of Pleasant Hill, who is over 40, edged Kevin Searls in a thriller.

Bowles ran a 32:54.4 to Searls's 33:00.4. Bowles caught Searls at the three-mile mark and they both ran the last 12 laps together until the final 200 yards when Bowles put on a

The winners stole 10 bases to ease past Stillo's. Jodi Minshall drove in three runs for California as the winners led the contest in the first three innings, scoring 10 runs. Minshall and Janice Price each had triples for California and Carolyn Edwards added a double.

Stillos rallied with four runs in the second and seventh innings but to no avail. Debbie Lindeman led the losers' attack with three RBI's. Pam Cantillon added two. Lindeman had the only triple for Stillo's.

Suzanne Skeen, Vickie Rogers and Lindeman each belted doubles for the losers.

Tax relief

Into the vacuum left by the Legislature's failure to provide tax relief for homeowners has moved Los Angeles County Assessor Phil Watson. He is reading another initiative campaign to limit property taxes.

Filed with the state he hopes to have sufficient signatures to qualify the measure by January. Even so it wouldn't go on the ballot until June 1978. It will be Watson's third effort to alter property taxes. He made unsuccessful attempts in 1968 and 1972.

Watson obviously has concluded the first two proposals lost because he attempted too much detail in spelling out other taxes to replace revenues which would have been lost. He avoids much of this now and his proposal merely places property tax limitations. The problem of devising substitute taxes is left to others, presumably the Legislature.

As a practical matter there are only two kinds of taxes which would result from his proposal. One is income and the other is the sales tax which Watson concedes might have to go to 10 per cent.

Because the Watson proposal will eliminate property taxes entirely for those whose homes are valued at $20,000 or under and reduce them by at least two-thirds for all others, it undoubtedly will find considerable support, initially anyway.

For the measure would limit property taxes to 1½ per cent of market value, give a $20,000 exemption for owner occupied homes and an additional 20 per cent exemption on all homes.

It would also ban the use of property taxes to finance health, welfare and educational programs. This will appeal to those who have long contended that property should be taxed only to support property related services, such as sewer and water lines, streets, and police and fire departments.

But the limitation on the use of property taxes seems to be the joker. As it stands property taxes average slightly under 3 per cent of market values. Limiting that tax to 1½ per cent would then appear to require substantial cutbacks in local government costs. However, since more than half the property taxes go to health, welfare and educational programs, the net result would be more money for local government to spend. It is quite apparent that Watson is not striking at what many believe to be the cause of high taxation, the unbridled spending by local governments.

And since Watson does not propose any limitations on assessed valuations, his proposal offers no long range protections for property owners. Rapidly increasing market values of homes would soon see the tax bills back where they now are and climbing despite his provision for cost of living increases in the exemptions. All that would be accomplished would be some temporary relief on property taxes in exchange for implied consent to raise income, sales and other taxes. It amounts to a move to force a massive shift of taxes without reform and without permanent relief.

What the Watson proposal may do however is to finally spur the Legislature into serious action on tax reform with the chances being good for home-owner relief along with some controls over spending by local governments.

This because Watson has included a little provision which would require a two-thirds majority vote of the Legislature to enact new or increased taxes rather than the simple majority now needed. If the lawmakers fail now to revamp the tax structure satisfactorily and the Watson measure wins approval by the voters, future levying of taxes by the Legislature will be far more difficult.

These are not easy times for the candidates. I mean, how would YOU like to be running for the nation's highest office AND operating Georgia's largest peanut and worm factory, all at the same time?

It can lead to conflicts within the family circle, let me assure you. Take the Carter clan, for instance.

"Jimmy, with the current price of worms we just ain't gonna make it," Earl Carter was advising his brother just the other day.

"Worms?" Jimmy says. "You dare to bother me about worms when I am involved in a campaign for the highest post in the nation? What kind of a brother are you, you idiot!"

"I'm the brother that's home paying the bills while you're gadding about New York and other foreign countries," Earl replies, stoutly. "And how's it gonna look to the voters if the Carter worm and peanut business go broke?"

"You have a good point there," Jimmy says, placing a long-distance call to Moses Washington, his announced choice for Secretary of Agriculture. "Get to work right away on a subsidy for peanut farmers and worm factories," Jimmy tells Moses.

"But won't the American people suspect you want to be president just to help out a good old southern boy," Moses asks. "Shouldn't we subsidize Michigan wheat and California cotton first?"

"Let them other presidents worry about their family farms, and I'll take care of the South," Jimmy asserts. "What kind of game do you think we presidential candidates are playing, anyhow?"

Things aren't much better with that other almost presidential candidate for the Democratic Party. The one who still can't believe that they chose a southern worm and peanut farmer over a solid west-coast student of Zen.

Governor Brown is contemplating his navel when Sikh Shishkaboom, his Secretary of Everything, enters the room, anxiously.

"It's another call from your former campaign manager," Shishkaboom announces. "It sounds urgent."

"Urgency is a state of mind," the governor says, from the Lotus position. "Tell him to call back in four years."

"He says it's about the $200,000 overdraft in your presidential campaign fund, and he says (if you'll pardon me, governor) to get your fanny off the floor and your brain into gear. He wants the $200,000 right now, sir."

"Money is the toy that tinkles the minds of small men," Brown says, making a pencilled note of the phrase for future reference. "Tell him to lower his expectations."

"He says, governor sir, to tell you the sheriff is on his way to your office with a warrant for your arrest on charges of defrauding the American people."

"Man is but a fleeting presence on the great stage of life," Brown announces, whilst heading speedily out the door. "I'm off to Tibet for a few weeks of safe contemplation."

Meanwhile, in the southern reaches of the state, things are bubbling along just fine. If you like being in the soup.

"The Ford bunch claim they have two more than the minimum number of candidates needed for the nomination," a man in cowboy hat announces, breathlessly.

"How can Ford have two more than the minimum when we just announced that we already have ten more than the number needed to nominate?" says Ronald Reagan, angrily. "What kind of dirty trick are they trying to play?"

"It's not so much dirty tricks as it is old-fashioned politics," the man in cowboy hat says. "We can't believe their addition anymore than they can believe ours. It's the way the game is played."

"Well I'm not asking Americans to elect me to the highest office in the nation because I can play games," Reagan says, firmly. "Let's cut out all this foolishness and tell the American people exactly where we stand!"

"Great idea," says man in cowboy hat. "The people will appreciate your honesty, especially when it means we're 180 delegate votes behind Ford and haven't got a prayer of catching him in Kansas City. I'll rush right out and tell the reporters."

"Come back here you idiot," Reagan says. "We can't let a little thing like 180 delegate votes confuse the Republicans about the man they really want for the presidency. What can we tell the reporters that will take their mind off delegate count and other trivia?"

"Well," man in cowboy hat says, "how about telling them you've chosen your vice president for the presidential job you're never going to get anyway?"

"Great idea," Reagan says, enthusiastically. "If there's one thing I like about national politics is an occasional Hollywood touch."

And so it was that Ronald Reagan, the president who can never be, named Richard Schweiker, the Ford delegate who never was, his choice for vice president on the Reagan ticket that doesn't exist.

And to think, all Queen Elizabeth has to worry about is how to keep Princess Ann from falling off her horse!

Murray 'joke'

Editor, The Times:

The recent questionnaire sent out for the Murray Elementary School District Citizens Advisory Committee is at best a bad joke! Another example of how the taxpayers of the district are being ripped off. No way can any value be placed on this questionnaire. It reminds me of the old question: "Have you stopped beating your wife?"

Included with the questionnaire is an information sheet, 196 words of Wool Pulling Hogwash, leaving it to the imagination of the individual as to how they responded.

In conclusion I would like to say, the responsibility for this fiasco belongs to the "Citizens Advisory Committee" also known as "All the Principals Men."

Skills center

The proposal to develop a center in Pleasanton that would train young people for industrial jobs sounds like a great idea. Fantastic! And that's just the trouble.

While it may appear to be poking a dirty stick into Santa Claus's eye, we still believe that Pleasanton must take a very careful look at this "Vallecitos Skills Center" before the city says "Let's go!"

The Times knows nothing that would detract from the particular sponsors of this new training center. We are all aware, however, that these poverty-grant programs have not been without their troubles. Communities have been hurt, and deserving people terribly disappointed, by the failure of similar ventures.

A center that would provide adequate training to the unemployed, the high school dropout or even the housewife-breadwinner could make a substantial long-term contribution to the community. And that is why it is worth the extra effort to make certain this particular proposal is just that ... "substantial" and "long term."

Give this plan a very careful once over, city council, and then — once completely satisfied — give it your enthusiastic support.

Save the trees

In this year of "the record breaking drought," we must not forget the trees. Experts advise us that trees even 50 years old, or more, can die or become diseased when the historic underground water resource suddenly disappears.

That is the case this year. Young trees and old trees — particularly those removed from garden and lawn areas — need water. The best, we are advised, is a slow trickle, from a hose left running over night.

In a Valley long known for its lovely trees, none of us would want to see that heritage lost in one drought-stricken year.

At the same time, we all have a responsibility to use water sparingly. There are Bay Area communities already reduced to scratching for water this year, and the long summer is far from over. Much of our water supply comes from a common source; we have a duty to conserve, regardless of the local condition.

Water well but water wisely. That would seem to be the good word for the summer of '76.

Religion on air

A news item appearing on the "Church Page" of last Sunday's Times attracted some criticism, and would seem to require some kind of explanation.

The item in question was headed "O'Hair out to stop religion on airways." The reference was to a campaign supposedly launched by Madalyn Murray O'Hair to keep certain religious messages and/or programs off the radio networks. This "news item" went on to urge reader response to a campaign aimed at countering the O'Hair move.

The item was in error on two counts. First, it was lifted in total from a local church bulletin without indicating that source. The appeal for "What can we do?" was that sounded by the church bulletin's editors, and should not have inferred a similar appeal from this newspaper for reader response.

Secondly, more recent information on the O'Hair matter makes it clear that the Federal Communication Commission, "buried under an avalanche of millions of letters" responding to that same concern, had already ruled on the original complaint — "separation of church and state" — and there is in fact no new "Madalyn O'Hair campaign" to keep anyone off the air. At least not as far as we know.

And so The Times and the church bulletin misled you on a number of counts. We regret our part in this hoopla, and we appreciate those readers who drew it to our attention.

Store signs

There are those who view Walnut Creek's total retail complex as perhaps the finest such commercial offering in all of suburbia. That is a finding we can not dispute.

The published annual "sales tax reports" also lead us to indicate the public agrees that "Walnut Creek is one of Northern California's best." And there is more still to come.

All of which makes even more startling the recent move by City of Walnut Creek to declare "illegal" a whole raft of signs — store names, neonized indicators, gas station lures. That sort of thing. Walnut Creek has determined that some 500 of them are unattractive, and therefore illegal. The city wants them removed.

The new ordinance went into effect last Monday. The city expects 250

"nonconforming signs" to be removed before the end of 1976. Another 250 will come down in 1977.

And all this in a city that is heralded as "a smart business community" ... that owes much of its municipal income to the retailer.

Which is why the Walnut Creek campaign to clean up its outdoor signs is impressive. This is apparently not "another of those kooky environmentalist moves." Rather it shapes up as a common-sense bid by the best of retail cities, to make itself even better.

And if Walnut Creek can it off, why not other cities?

The name of the retail game is to be attractive, competitive, functional. Walnut Creek is already a leader on at least two of those counts. Now it is making its play for a clean sweep.

Letters to the Times

Federal reform

Editor, The Times:

It appears to me that you have missed a golden opportunity in offering your readers both the "good news" and the "bad news" coming out of Washington this last week.

Thp "good news" was that after two years of hearings some of the Watergate-inspired reforms are becoming a possibility with the Senate passing the Watergate Reorganization and Reform Act by a vote of 91 to 5 and a favorable House vote expected. When we add to this the news that the Senate passed a strong Lobby Disclosure bill on June 15 and a comprehensive Financial Disclosure bill last week we can begin to feel that our Senators are really seeking to bring about some needed reforms toward protecting our representative democracy.

The "bad news" is that although the lobby and financial disclosure bills were co-sponsored in the House of Representatives by 165 members of the House, including Rep. Pete Starke, these bills have been bogged down in the Judiciary Committee, chaired by Rep. Peter Rodino for 17 months! The opposition to these bills by special interest, "Fat Cats" and their lobbyists has apparently been quite effective. Now there are less than forty working days left for the 94th Congress to give the American people the reforms they promised us in the campaign two years ago.

We should all join in asking our representative to take a leadership role in the House inward insuring these three bills are brought to the floor for a vote where passage is assured.

Those of us who are members of the "people's lobby," Common Cause, or are informed on such issues but I am sure most of your readers here in the Valley would appreciate your paper keeping them informed and your speaking out for such needed reforms.

Let us hear some "good news"! James S. Griffes

LLL invitation

Editor, The Times:

I take pleasure in issuing a special invitation to the Livermore-Amador Valley public to take part in the Lawrence Livermore's Bicentennial Open House.

A feature of the Open House is the opening of the new LLL Visitor Center on Saturday, July 31. This permanent facility is designed to inform the public on the work of the Laboratory and the Energy Research and Development Administration.

The Visitor Center, at the Greenville Road entrance to LLL, will be open for the first time on Saturday, July 31 during the hours from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. In addition, the general public is invited, for the first time, to tour some of our facilities — the laboratories for biomedicine and for laser and magnetic fusion.

All U.S. citizens and citizens of non-Soviet bloc nations will be admitted. We will request visitors to sign a roster indicating citizenship. We must ask that visitors under 18 be accompanied by an adult and that cameras, recording devices and pets be left at home. Visitors may park inside the Laboratory and shuttle buses will be available to transport guests from one site to another.

Associate Director for Human Resources and Laboratory Relations.

School puzzle

Editor, The Times:

With regards to the recent article on Pleasanton School District's budget cuts, I am really puzzled. A list of the possible cuts seemed to be cuts that affected the quality of education available to our children.

However, two paragraphs later the subject of teaching vice principals was raised as probably being retained in the budget at an estimated cost of $60,000. Yet there is no justification as to how this will maintain or enhance the education of our children. Teachers in the district are opposed to the funding of these positions and they are in the best position to evaluate it.

The school board is again showing its ineptness in handling the financial affairs of this district. I am more convinced than ever that my no vote on the tax increase in June was correct. I do not mind spending money for quality education but I will not support high salaries for unneeded personnel.

FORE!

"That one where you have to hit the ball uphill into the can," groaned the guy in the blue and white sweatband.

"If I don't have a migraine already, I get one listening to that racket, with the ball banging around up there."

"Of course, it never makes it into the can and down the pipe."

He was athletic-looking enough in his tennis shorts and suntan, lounging in a corner of Aromatic. He and his wife were working on onion sandwiches while the five-year-old savored peanut butter and jelly on white.

You'd think a vigorous family man could cope with the Pleasanton Miniature Golf Course. I always thought it was just frazzled divorced mothers like myself who freaked out trying to get through 18 holes with a bunch of kids.

I edged nearer.

"And the ones with the mounds! They're the worst."

"You tap the ball gently. Up the hill it rolls...past the hole...down the other side."

His hands shook as he traced the familiar route of the golf ball past its intended destination.

I leaned eagerly over the table. "What about Number Seven?" I urged. "The one where you have to shoot across a little stream?"

He was near tears. "Yeah, and all the kids want to do is splash in the water with their golf clubs!"

I was warming up. "And the little red barn?"

"Where the door slams shut just before the ball reaches it."

I parked my iced tea on the table and introduced myself. They were Don and Marge Muntz, with towheaded Mark in the Florida T-shirt. Nice Pleasanton family spending the day together, or at least they were until Marge suggested they walk down to the Fairgrounds for some miniature golfing.

Her brown eyes grew round at her husband's impassioned outburst.

"Gee," she offered. "I used to go miniature golfing on dates when I was a teen-ager. It was a big deal. I loved it."

Mark was done with his sandwich, so he piped up. "I like the second hole. The one with the windmill that goeth round." He turned his freckled smile on me.

"Yeah," I snapped. "I remember that one. Hit the ball too hard and it goes through the fence and you tear your pants climbing out after it."

Miniature golf courses are fun places until you reach a certain stage in your life when your old values get rearranged and your idea of what is fun makes a 180-degree about face.

That stage is called parenthood. It hits you in the prime of life, and suddenly sleeping until 10 a.m. or having an uninterrupted cup of coffee become priceless treasures. Taking the kids to the bowling alley, the movies, miniature golf or any of Mom and Dad's old dating haunts — well, that's an endurance test, at least for some of us.

"What I can't stand," admitted Don, "is the way the kids make up their own rules. Here I am, following them around with the scorecard (because I'm the only one who can add.)"

"D'ya think they aim for the hole, when there's something more interesting to aim for, like water or hitting it over the backstop? D'ya think they take turns in order? Hah!"

He was getting worked up again. "IF ONLY THEY'D STICK TO THE RULES, IT WOULDN'T BE SO BAD!"

I began to see why kids are half price if accompanied by an adult. Picture a miniature golf course filled with unsupervised kids.

The little girls settle down on one of the carpeted mounds and take out their Barbie dolls. They pack them into the Barbie camper and go for a trip along the fairway to the windmill or the barn.

Somebody is starting a contest — how far out of the fence can you hit the ball? How many balls can you hit onto the Fairgrounds without getting caught?

They're crawling through the tunnels and sliding down the ramps and jumping over the mounds. Now, somebody has wiggled inside the windmill and is pretending to be Godzilla.

A tiny tot is off in the corner, scribbling little crooked zeros on all the scorecards with her stubby green pencil.

Maybe there's a better way to run a miniature golf course...

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We have made up today's hand from a question sent us by a California reader. The hand is a trap in that it is mighty easy to get too high with the North-South hands.

The bidding in the box is expert bidding. South is just too weak to open with a two bid, so he jumps in a new suit at his second turn to bid.

North isn't happy. He has just 10 high-card points, but if South has a real two-suit hand the three diamonds to a queen may be just what the doctor ordered. So, he raises to four diamonds.

Now South bids four hearts to convey the message that his heart suit is self sufficient. He had too much for a mere jump rebid to four hearts.

North gets the message and passes.

Four hearts is a good contract. South wins the diamond with his ace and promptly plays ace and a second trump.

West takes his king trump. West takes his king and leads a second diamond. East has to follow and South takes it with the king.

Now South draws trump with two leads discarding spades from dummy, leads a club to dummy's ace and then cashes the king of clubs and throws off the spade queen from his hand. He continues with the jack and it doesn't matter what East does now.

If East covers with the queen, South trumps and returns to dummy with the queen of diamonds to cash his two good clubs and sluff the spade king and small diamond from his hand. If East doesn't cover the jack, South sluffs the spade king and continues clubs. East must play his queen. South trumps, goes to the dummy with the diamond and cashes the good club, making six. If West takes his ace of spades when he is in with his trump king, he will hold the contract to five.

Ask the Jacobys

Our reader just sent us the North and South hands. We filled in East and West ourselves. He doesn't say, but probably he and his partner got into trouble. They would not be alone in the hot seat. In a duplicate game about half the pairs would get

Marine band to perform

LIVERMORE — The Marine Corps Band, designated the President's Band and the one that plays for all official state occasions, will play two concerts in the valley this fall.

It will be the band's only Bay Area appearance. The performance was arranged by the Livermore Jaycees through the efforts of Marine Sgt. Bona, the Livermore recruiting sergeant.

Friday, Oct. 15 has been set for the two performances. Further details and ticket information will be announced as the date approaches.

The U. S. is divided into five geographical locations which are assigned by the Department of Defense on a rotating basis each year for national concert tours by the four major service bands in Washington, D. C.

The U. S. Marine Corps Band tours once a year, in the fall, in an area or areas which have been assigned on the rotation basis.

CITY OF PLEASANTON NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION PROJECT DESIGNATION: GP-76-3

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, general plan amendment GP-76-3 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of the proposed amendment to the general plan which would change the land use designation for two parcels of land located on the south side of Vineyard Avenue between Adams Way and Mavis Drive (Assessor's Parcels 946-2528-1.5 and 946-2528-2.2), containing approximately 7.64 acres, from High Density Residential to Medium Density Residential.

The change in general plan designation would permit a subsequent rezoning of the property from the existing multiple residential district to a less dense single family district. Because a portion of this land is developed (about 2.9 acres) any future zoning change would only affect the future development of the vacant portion. The change in density has been undertaken in order to alleviate potential traffic problems on Vineyard Avenue. Any future development proposal would be subject to future environmental assessment. It is the finding of the City Manager that this general plan amendment would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals on this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date or publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, which ever is later, this decision will become effective.

CITY OF PLEASANTON NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION PROJECT DESIGNATION: UP-76-20

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, conditional use permit UP-76-20 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of the proposed use of the site of St. Augustine Church at 900 East Angela Street by Valley Christian Center for the operation of Christian Center School, a private school for kindergarten through eighth grade students. A ten by fifty-five foot relocatable modular building would be installed on the site to be used in conjunction with existing classroom buildings. Approximately 200 students would be enrolled, coming from throughout the Valley; school hours are from 9 A.M. to 3:30 P.M., five days a week.

The St. Augustine's Church site has been used as a school site by the Pleasanton Elementary School District in the past (school children were bused to the site) and by the Valley Christian Center for the past year. Enrollment increases have necessitated the expansion into the relocatable building. The school site and the location of the new building are on the north side of the church property, well off the main road, and use of that area for school purposes should not cause any new impacts in the area.

The traffic generated by the Christian Center School would be greater than that generated by the school operated by the Pleasanton Elementary District and the previous year's Christian Center School. School children arrive by shuttle van from Dublin and by car pool. Roughly sixty vehicle trips in the morning and again in the afternoon are necessary to bring the students to and from the school. Access to the school site is not good; vehicles are generally forced to use either Neal Street or East Angela Street, both residential streets which feed into the central business district and its circulation problem areas. The 120, perhaps more, vehicle trips per day generated by this use represent at most 5 percent of the existing traffic on these two streets. Because the school-related traffic would occur during the day and not at peak hours, the traffic impact, though present, is not felt to be significant.

It is the finding of the City Manager that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

CITY OF PLEASANTON NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION PROJECT DESIGNATION: UP-76-20

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, conditional use permit UP-76-21 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of the application of the Evangelical Free Church for a conditional use permit to allow church activities to take place on a 9.5 acre parcel of land located on the east side of Valley Trails Drive midway between Virgin Islands Court and Yosemite Court (Assessor's Parcel No. 941-903-57). Preliminary plans show the construction of an approximately 9,900 square foot multi-purpose building to house the combined functions of sanctuary, social hall, and gymnasium in addition to kitchen, nursery, and meeting rooms. An additional 5,000 square foot office and education building is also planned along with off-street parking for 99 vehicles and landscaped areas. Use of the site initially would take place on Sunday morning and Wednesday and Sunday evenings.

The use, replacing a proposed elementary school which is no longer needed, would create few impacts on this developed neighborhood. The large area devoted to recreational uses on the preliminary plan, if improved, would essentially replace a school's play area; the adjacent Valley Trails Park and nearby community park would continue to supply ample park land to the residents. The site is within a designated flood hazard area; it is surrounded by development, however, and unsuitable for flood plain management by exclusion of development. Any structure built on the site would have to be elevated above the flood level or flood proofed, according to City policy. Traffic would be increased on Valley Trails Drive during short periods; some short term congestion could result at Hopland Road and Valley Trails South where two additional churches would be located, if the times of Sunday services are not staggered. Valley Trails Drive is a major residential collector street and its intersections with Hopland Road are equipped with turn lanes; no traffic safety problems are anticipated. The City Manager finds that the use of this site for a church would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days following the above date or publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, whichever is later, this decision will become effective.

Latter-day Saints

PLEASANTON—Dr. Reed Durham Jr., Director of the Salt Lake City Institute of Religion for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will speak at a fireside at the Church, 6101 Valley Ave., at 8 p.m. this Sunday.

Dr. Durham, noted author and lecturer, will speak on the subject of Joseph Smith's contribution to America. Joseph Smith, according to the Mormons, was instrumental in restoring the Church of Jesus Christ to earth again in 1830 under the direction of the Lord. Since that time, church members claim, a living prophet has been at the head of the church to provide guidance and direction to church members.

Joseph Smith translated what is known as the Book of Mormon—a brief and partial history of the people on this continent from about 600 BC until 421 AD. Descendants of this people are what we know today as the American Indian.

To learn more about this and some of Joseph Smith's other contributions to America, plan to attend the fireside. The public is welcome.

First Assembly of God

PLEASANTON—The famous Carillon Bell Choir will perform Sunday night at 6 at the First Assembly of God Church, 6656 Alisal St. Ralph Carmichael, outstanding music composer and director, recently announced these talented young people as "the finest group of bell ringers in America."

They have performed several times at the Center of Performing Arts in their home town of San Jose, as well as on television and in numerous churches of all denominations.

The Rev. Ralph I. Cranston, internationally known evangelist, will minister at both the 11 a.m. worship service and the 6 p.m. service.

He will speak of the world-wide charismatic renewal and will reveal the mystic ingredients of the Old Testament, and anointing oil at the 11 a.m. service.

Sunday night, he will bring a prophetic message of the subject of the rider of the White Horse of the Book of Revelations. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Seventh-day Adventist

LIVERMORE—It is customary for Adventist's Pastors to move every few years; so, the congregation of Livermore's Seventh-day Adventist Church bid a fond farewell to the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Becker last Sabbath, who have served the church for the past four years.

They are exchanging positions with Elder and Mrs. Ralph McGann from the Sacramento Southgate Church.

A fellowship dinner is planned this Sabbath following the 11 a.m. main worship service to give the congregation an opportunity to greet and welcome the new pastor and his wife. An all-vegetarian menu will be served and visitors are cordially invited.

Rudy Johnson remains as Sabbath School Superintendent. He is planning a discussion for the Sabbath school which meets at 10 a.m. concerning "An Anchor Against Apostasy." Johnson invites visitors to participate in small group discussions, whether or not they choose to stay for the 11 o'clock worship service.

The church is located at 243 Scott St.

Evangelical Free

PLEASANTON—The Evangelical Free Church which meets in the Valley View School on Adams Way has Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated during the morning worship service at 11.

Youth groups for all ages meet at 5:45 p.m. The Evening Fellowship Hour which follows at 7 will also be devoted to the youth this week. Under the direction of the youth pastor, Mat McClelland, they will present a program during the service.

This coming week is also youth week for the church. The young people will be meeting each evening for recreational activities followed by a fellowship hour.

Soft ball for the whole family is scheduled for Monday night at 6:30 at the Aquatic Park.

Mid-week services are held every Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Pleasanton Garden's Community Room.

Holy Cross Lutheran

LIVERMORE—The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at the 9 a.m. family worship service at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 1020 Mocho St. Serving as celebrant will be the pastor, the Rev. Milton C. Johnson, who will have as his Communion meditation theme: "What in the World are You Doing Here?"

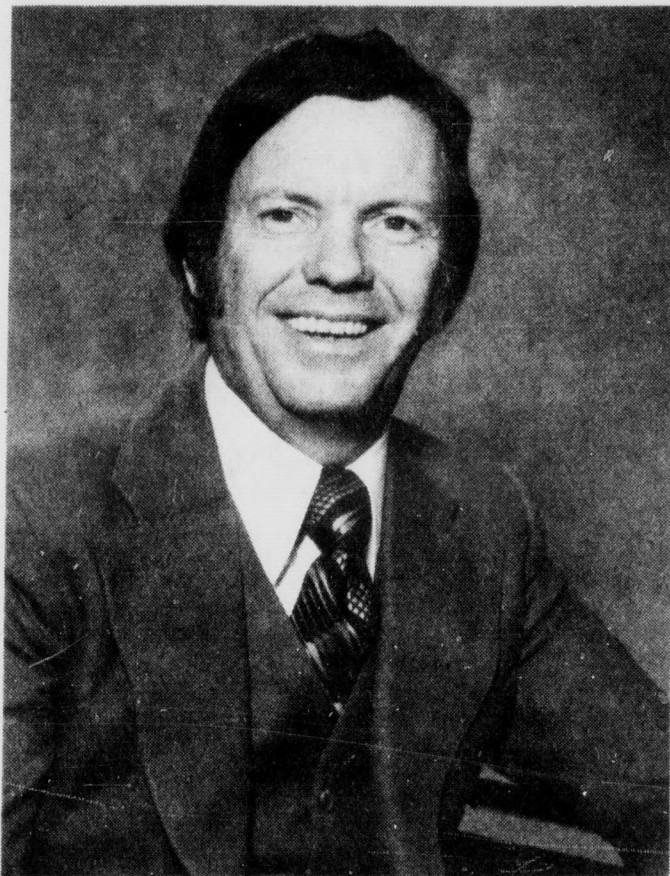

provide both a memorable and meaningful experience for all participants.

Using the recently completed Louisiana Superdome as a base for the five-day gathering, it will bring together members of the three major Lutheran bodies: The American Lutheran Church (ALC), Lutheran Church in America (LCA) and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod (LCMS).

Approximately 125 registrants from the San Francisco Bay Area will join in this celebration of a primary Christian sacrament—Baptism. Five distinct villages, filling the 90,000 square foot Superdome floor will transport the young people from the Renaissance to the future. The setting is unique, diverse, colorful and expansive; the largest non-sporting event ever to occupy the Superdome.

The young people attending the congress from Trinity Lutheran will be formally commissioned at the church's 8 a.m. service of worship this Sunday.

Dr. John Wesley White

Area churches plan ten-day crusade

Dr. John Wesley White, personal friend and associate of Dr. Billy Graham, will lead a 10-day evangelistic Crusade at Concord Boulevard Neighborhood Park, August 6-15, sponsored by the Diablo Valley Crusade.

A native of Canada, Dr. White has been associated with Dr. Graham since 1964. During this time he has traveled to 82 countries, preaching the Gospel from Britain to Australia, from South Africa to Russia and extensively throughout North America. In a recent Crusade in Modesto, California over 640 responded to commitment to Christ as more than 30,000 attended his 10-day Crusade.

Bringing spiritual sensitivity and academic preparation to the field of evangelism, Dr. White believes that both are necessary if one is to bring to bear the influence of Jesus Christ on today's people. Dr. White has two earned Ph.D. degrees, one from Oxford University, England.

The Rev. Robert Parma, pastor of Central Baptist Church in Concord, is the Executive Director of the Diablo Valley Crusade, which came about as a result of local interest and initiative. According to Rev. Parma, a number of pastors and laymen, for quite some time, have felt a growing concern to see a united evangelistic endeavor develop in Contra Costa and Alameda Counties, and over a year ago wrote to Dr. Graham's organization for assistance. The coming Crusade will be jointly sponsored by the area churches and The Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

Congress draws over a million

Over one million people from all over the world are expected to attend the first International Eucharistic Congress to be held on the North American Continent in 50 years, scheduled for Philadelphia August 1 through 8.

The Eucharistic Congress is a spiritual assembly of Catholics and other Christians in a public demonstration of faith in the Eucharist. Theme of the 41st International Congress is "The Eucharist and the Hungers of the Human Family," developed through the nine-day session in specific concerns for people starving in body for food and in soul for God.

Because of ill health, it is still not certain whether His Holiness Pope Paul VI, spiritual leader of the Roman Catholic Church, will be present for the Congress.

The Rev. Robert E. Fontaine of St. Paul's Church in San Pablo will be Bishop Begin's personal representative at the Congress. He will be accompanied by Father Bernard Dabbene, principal of Salesian High School.

The Eucharistic Congress will be televised live over KXTV, Channel 10, on Sunday, August 8, from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Orchestra formed by 10 churches

LIVERMORE—Ten different churches are represented in the twenty piece orchestra which will present two public concerts, August 1 and 2. Sunday's performance will be held at the Calvary Temple, 2200 Arroyo Rd. at 6 p.m. and Monday's at the Junction Avenue School at 7:30 p.m. Conductor Xavier Gutierrez hopes it will be the first of many of these cooperative performances.

Also on the program will be a 50 voice choir made up of local young people dressed in red, white and blue as they sing a tribute to America. Their "I Love America" cantata is by John W. Peterson and Don Wrytzen, both prominent composers, also known for their sacred music.

Tickets for the events are being sold at $1.50 for adults and $1 for ages 6 to 12, at the Christian Booktique in Dublin and the Good Book Store in Livermore. All proceeds are to be used for production costs.

"Create and Celebrate," Vacation Bible School for grades K-6 starts Monday, August 2. You may still register your children by calling Marilyn Hart, 846-4733.

NEED A LAUGH? If you require a good, hearty laugh with your cereal each morning, don't miss "Frank and Ernest" in The Times comics.

Mormons celebrate pioneer heritage

PLEASANTON—The stands of the Alameda County Fairgrounds Race Track were filled to capacity last Saturday for the Church of the Latter-day Saints' celebration commemorating the entrance of the early Mormon pioneers into the Salt Lake Valley, headquarters of the Mormon Church, July 24, 1847.

Members from the tri-valley and surrounding communities (Fremont, Oakland, Concord and Walnut Creek) sponsored a RCA approved rodeo as part of the activities which also included a childrens parade in which the Founding Fathers and pioneer ancestors were honored in costume and dress.

In the afternoon the "Durham Road" a popular rock and bicentennial band performed in the amphitheater along with the "Songsmiths," a young Southern California group of 30 girls that portrayed the "Story of America" in both song and dance.

It was all in tribute to the time that Brigham Young, Prophet and President of the Church proclaimed "This is the place" (speaking of the Salt Lake Valley) which members of the Church could now call "home." Thus ending the journey for a vanguard company of early pioneers which took 17 months and covered over 1200 miles.

The Salt Lake Valley was a place described by early trappers and scouts as "a land no one else wanted." Yet Brigham Young, under the inspiration of the Lord, stated that it was here that the Lord's Church would be established and go forth throughout all the world.
